Bennett Rutledge For themselves	You had my enthusiastic support with the first word: REPEAL With the better part of 100 thousand laws in the Colorado Revised Statutes alone, and many more being added each legislative session, it has not been possible since the middle of last century for any individual human to be a law abiding citizen. I have even seen hints that major international megacorporations, with a skyscraper full of corporate counsel, and regulatory compliance folks, cannot be law abiding "persons." This may not look like much, but it is an important step in the right direction. Keep going! (and if a bill like HB26-1073 comes up next year, please give these pure-repeal bills the same exemption to any cap that sunset extensions get.)
